The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

> A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -
> (e) the invention was described in-
> (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
> (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).
> Claims 1-4 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Pu.

Pu shows a leadframe 7 having first and second die 1 and 2 coupled to the lead frame with solder bumps 5 and 6. A mold body 8 is also shown.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
> Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pu et al in view of Tagawa et al and Choi et al.

Pu shows a leadframe 7 having first and second die 1 and 2 coupled to the lead frame with solder bumps 5 and 6. A mold body 8 is also shown. Pu fails to have specific discussion of use of a MOSFET and controller die as well as exposing chip through mold bodies. As Pu fail to limit the chip so his invention to particular devices it is deemed that the absence of the suggestion of the use of particular chip would suggest that conventional chips well known to one having ordinary skill in this art are utilized in the invention of Pu which would include those recited int claims 4 and 5. Packages having both MOSFETs and controller are also well known as Tagawa teaches use of MOSFET power chip 6 and control chip 7 formed on opposing sides of lead frames.

Choi et al show chip 40 having an surface exposed form mold 60. Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to expose the chip PU. The ordinary artisan would have been motivated to modify the invention of Pu to provide improved heat dissipation and to expose bottom surface electrodes.

Claims 1-6 are rejected.

Yamamanchili et al, Moden, Park et al, Yoshida et al, Venkatedhwaran et al are cited to show ships on lead frames.
